

Help with sexual or domestic violence

Advice and support can also be obtained in the district of Viersen during the corona pandemic District of Viersen.

In the current crisis situation with severe restrictions in public life, the risk for women and children to experience domestic and sexual violence is increasing. At the same time, injuries or the need for support from those affected are less noticeable when, for example, those affected no longer go to work. For children, adolescents and adults who are affected by violence in their direct social environment, the current situation can mean that they are constantly at the mercy of perpetrators.

That's why:

Specialist advice centers and other support facilities can still be reached by telephone and online in the Viersen district for those affected and provide support in individual cases.

It is also important not to look away, but to offer support in cases of domestic and / or sexual violence, to contact specialist advice centers or, in the case of an emergency, to inform the police. Below is a list of the advice centers (in the district of Viersen and nationally) with the corresponding contact details, which can also be found at www.kreis-viersen.de.
